SERBIAN DIPLOMATS

STOJAN NOVAKOVIC

The boy Kosta Novakovic, who later changed his name to Stojan, started his journey into Serbian history after his teacher advised his father to send the child to school in Belgrade. When the father said that he had no money for the trip, the teacher almost prophetically told him: "Borrow for the trip. He is so hardworking that he will be supporting himself soon, and repay that debt." And this is exactly what happened.

After a successful political career in Serbia, Stojan Novakovic was appointed to his first diplomatic position in Constantinople in 1886. Over the next six years, he managed to conclude several successful agreements with the Turkish authorities, especially in the field of education and culture.

The goal of his diplomatic activity was to improve the position of Serbs on the territory of the former Old Serbia, including parts of Kosovo and Metohija, Albania and Macedonia.
