SERBIAN DIPLOMACY DAY

Serbian Diplomacy Day marks in Serbia this month. This holiday was established in memory of May 29, 1839, when the first Office of Foreign Affairs was established in the Principality of Serbia, which is considered the beginning of professional diplomacy in our country.

At that time, Serbia had only a few representations in our region, the Ottoman Empire, Russia and Austria, and today it has over 100 diplomatic and consular missions on all continents.

We congratulate the citizens of the Republic of Serbia and all Serbian diplomats who represent our country in the world, and make Serbia a respected state and an important factor in international politics today.
